Call for Abstracts

23rd International Vacuum Congress 2025

Join us at the forefront of scientific discovery and technological innovation at the esteemed International Vacuum Congress (IVC), hosted by IUVSTA (International Union of Vacuum Science, Technique, and Application). Since 1959, IVC has been a cornerstone event, convening the global community of scientists, engineers, educators, entrepreneurs, and industry leaders working at the intersection of vacuum science and technology.

We invite abstract submissions from researchers, practitioners, and innovators across the spectrum of vacuum science and its applications. Whether you're delving into advancements in medical and food technologies, exploring the frontiers of quantum computing, or pioneering breakthroughs in space flight propulsion systems like plasma thrusters for deep space exploration, IVC provides a platform to showcase your work and contribute to the global dialogue.
